KEY COMMERCIAL SIGNALS

- Full time staff doubled in a year, team now eleven to fifty, per LinkedIn and ZoomInfo.
- Clients now include the ATO, Queensland Government and Rio Tinto, per SmartCompany 2025.
- Now registered on the NSW Government supplier panel, alongside its Queensland base.
- Launched PINE, a network for Indigenous professionals, beyond core recruitment work.
- No external equity or debt raise found. Growth appears funded from trading revenue alone.

REVENUE GROWTH, $ MILLIONS

Source: SmartCompany Smart50 2025 profile, FY23 to FY25 revenue disclosure

01

Growth has outpaced the finance function

Revenue grew from $2.7 million to $10.1 million in three years, a 90 percent average annual rate that placed MuraConnect sixth nationally in the 2025 Smart50 Awards. Full time headcount doubled over the same period, and cash visibility typically lags behind growth moving this fast.

02

Panel growth brings concentration risk

Queensland departments served grew from four to fifteen in a year, and MuraConnect has since joined the New South Wales Government panel too. That is real diversification, but public sector reliance still runs deep, and a clear map of revenue by client would show where to target next.

03

Recruitment margins need close management

Recruitment and IT delivery margins are typically thin, and they move quickly as headcount and contractor rates shift. With three co founders steering a business that has tripled in size, a monthly management pack brings the same rhythm its government clients already expect.

These observations are offered in good faith. MuraConnect has built something genuinely impressive in three years. The question is simply whether the financial architecture matches the ambition.
