Hampr | Three commercial observations from ProfitPulse

01

The marketplace float is a cash flow event waiting to happen

At $12.7M in revenue growing at 153% year on year, Hampr processes payments between corporate clients and a network of food and event suppliers. As transaction volume grows so does the cash in transit between client receipts and supplier payments. Without a structured 13 week cash flow forecast a fast growing marketplace can run short of cash even while reporting a healthy profit. ProfitPulse engagements routinely identify six to twelve percent of annual revenue in manageable float.

02

The Singapore launch needs a financial model, not just a website

Hampr has moved into Singapore with a live website and a publicly stated FY2026 target. International expansion requires upfront investment in team, compliance, and market development well ahead of local revenue. With the most recent funding round at $1.08M in May 2025, a rigorous financial model for the Singapore launch is needed: one that maps cash burn, the revenue ramp, and the break even timeline. A Fractional CFO Partnership is designed to carry exactly this work.

Enterprise contracts will change the financial DNA of the business

Two enterprise tenders in active pursuit means a step change from a diversified SME client base to a smaller number of much larger contracts. Enterprise clients carry 60 to 90 day payment terms and detailed financial reporting expectations. This concentrates revenue risk, extends the cash conversion cycle, and demands board grade reporting that a founder led business at this scale may not yet have in place. Getting ahead now protects margin and negotiating position.

These observations are offered in good faith. Hampr has built something genuinely impressive. The question is simply whether the financial architecture is ready for the next chapter.

Fractional CFO Partnership

$7,500 per month

A senior financial partner at the table on a monthly cadence. Monthly management pack, quarterly board grade review, ad hoc decision support, and a single annual deep dive. For Hampr: a financial rhythm for the Singapore launch, enterprise contract cash flow modelling, and the reporting infrastructure to match the ambition.
