al.ive body Three commercial observations from ProfitPulse.

01

Rapid range growth outpaces visibility al.ive body has grown from roughly 50 to more than 90 products, alongside new senior sales and customer experience hires. Fast growing brands rarely have full clarity on which lines carry real margin once packaging, freight, and stockist terms are allocated.

Matched to the recommendation, next slide

02

Two channels, two margin profiles

Revenue now spans direct to consumer sales and a wholesale network of over 850 stockists, including Myer. Direct and wholesale channels usually carry different margins once discounting, freight, and terms are factored in. A clear line and channel view sharpens the next move.

03

Fresh capital changes the calculus

SmartCompany reported in August 2026 that Unmarked Group has taken a stake described as growth capital, meant to fund further scale. New capital tends to accelerate whatever is already working, which makes a clear margin picture timely.

These observations are offered in good faith. al.ive body has built something genuinely impressive from a standing start in 2020. The question is simply whether the margin picture is as clear as the growth story.

Product and Service Line Profitability

$3,950 one off

A three week project ranking every product line by gross margin, contribution margin and operational drag, so growth capital and shelf space go to the lines that actually earn it.
