Three commercial observations from ProfitPulse

01

Five partners, one finance team

In roughly a year Sniip added BPAY, American Express, Qantas Frequent Flyer, Virgin Australia Business Flyer and WEX Motorpass. Each partner carries its own settlement cycle and margin profile. Layering five economic models onto one finance function in twelve months tests reporting fast.

02

A Fast 100 debut raises the bar

Sniip's AFR Fast 100 2025 debut confirms revenue growth strong enough to clear the five million dollar threshold on a three year view. Lists like this draw investor and partner attention. Converting that attention well means board grade numbers are ready on request, not assembled after the fact.

03

A rewards liability needs a steady hand

Every bill paid can earn points across Qantas, Virgin and Amex programs. That is a growing liability sitting behind a fast growing transaction base. A monthly Fractional CFO Partnership keeps cash position, partner economics and the management pack as sharp as the product roadmap.

These observations are offered in good faith. Sniip has built something genuinely impressive. The question is simply whether the financial architecture keeps pace with the partnership roadmap.

$4,950 per month

ProfitPulse verified price. The questionnaire confirms the exact fit for Sniip.

A senior financial partner at the table each month: management pack, quarterly board grade review, and support as new partnerships add complexity.
