TMC Fine Jewellers: three commercial observations from ProfitPulse01*Four showrooms, one working capital question

Brisbane, Sydney, Melbourne and a London pop up now each hold moissanite and lab grown diamond stock ahead of sale. Every new showroom and every pre BFCM build locks up cash before it converts to revenue, and four sites multiply that exposure at once.

02One week now carries close to a third of the year

The 2025 BFCM target of $3.75 million is planned six to eight months out, up from $2.6 million in 2024. That concentration is a strength when forecast well and a liquidity shock when the stock build outpaces the cash available to fund it.

03Growth has outrun the reporting cadence

Four showrooms across three countries within about eighteen months is a rapid build for a five year old business. Matching that pace with a costed twelve month plan keeps the next site funded by design rather than by whichever quarter had cash to spare.

These observations are offered in good faith. Makayla and Tom have built something rare in five years. The question is simply whether the financial architecture keeps pace with the shopfronts.
